Quality Mission Statement
CEDES AG Landquart

In close coordination with the customer and based on our three decades of know-how, we develop tailored solutions which add value to the customer’s business. We consider the customer a partner and we strive to build long term upon this partnership through integrated supply management.

Our company maintains a quality management system, which meets and significantly exceeds the ISO 9001 industrial standard. Our employees play a central role in product design and production. They work within a clearly defined process which defines responsibility for quality, delivery dates and costs throughout the operational line. Quality management is directly subordinate to the senior management, ensuring all relevant issues are handled at the highest level.

This system seeks not to restrict employees but rather to give them a sense of security and order in their activities, as well as laying the ground rules for everyday interactions. Internal system-and-audit processes monitor the effectiveness of both quality management and of employees who self-check under it. These audits are carried out by various independent auditors. Whenever the system is modified as part of a constant improvement process, such changes are then reviewed.

The hallmark of our quality management is an extremely efficient feedback control system. We can thus react extremely fast to new developments to achieve a continuous improvement of processes and quality.

Our products have been approved by recognized third party test laboratories and meet all relevant European laws and standards. Our internal test laboratories received TÜV Rheinland approval in March 2016.

In 2018, CEDES manufactured over 16.3 million printed circuit boards from over 215.8 million individual parts and produced more than 1,036,830 sensors/devices, which we delivered all over the world. Our highly motivated and extremely customer-oriented employees, supported by state-of-the-art machinery, made this output of the highest quality possible.

Today, CEDES is one of the leading manufacturers of light curtains and sensors with a quality claim rate more than 50% below the business average. This outstanding quality standard allows us to increase the warranty period for the cegard/Mini-CC 36 light curtains from 2 years to 5 years from the production date 01 January 2019.
